

Parents and carers:

How have you and your children experienced COVID-19?

Everyday life has been disrupted for us all by the COVID-19 outbreak. We want to understand how it has impacted parents and carers. We want to know what support you have had, and what the barriers have been to getting support?

Are you a parent or carer to a child or young person aged 18 or under?

Can you help us by taking part in a survey about your experiences?

WHO IS DOING THE RESEARCH?

A team of researchers at the University of Stirling's Centre for Child Wellbeing and Protection are conducting the research. They are led by Prof Jane Callaghan

The research is funded by the Chief Scientist's Office, Scotland

THE FACE19 STUDY

The FACE19 study aims to understand the impact of the coronavirus (COVID-19) outbreak on children and young people, and on their carers or parents.

We also want to understand what support carers and parents have been able to get during the pandemic, and what support they still feel they need.

What does it involve?

You will complete a questionnaire online that asks about your wellbeing, about parenting / caring through the pandemic, and about the kinds of support and services you have used to help. The questionnaire is anonymous.

If you want to, you can be entered into a prize draw as a thank you for taking part (£100 in vouchers)

HOW DO I CONTACT YOU?

If you want to know more about the study, or want to talk to our research team, email face19@stir.ac.uk or check our website: <http://face19.stir.ac.uk/>
